SECTION 2

Architectural Description:

General Architectural Description: One-story stucco over frame and adobe building with two modern additions added to the East and West facades. The two additions encase the original structure, modifying the original shape and style of the building. The two additions have shed rooflines while the original has a side gable roof. A bird's eye photograph from 1954 shows the building at one time had a front porch around entrance. A brick wainscot is wrapped on the East and South façades and is a modern addition. The metal front door on the East façade is offset and flanked by two horizontally oriented vinyl windows. Modern, metal awnings have been placed over the doorway and windows. A rear metal door has been added to the original building on the South façade. Large swamp coolers have been placed on the shed roofs as well as ventilator caps.

SECTION 2

Architectural Description:

General Architectural Description:

One-story plastered, rectangular shaped, adobe house measures roughly 90'x58' with a non-historic 55'x18' addition on rear half of the south façade. The brick, arched porch measuring roughly 13' x 70' was added circa 1900 and has been enclosed at some point (date unknown). The flat roof is constructed of sycamore and willow. The curvilinear parapet was added after the 1936 HABS (Historic American Buildings Survey) but before 1947 based on a photo in the El Paso Morning Times newspaper, which is thought to have been printed on October 30, 1947. According to the HABS record the building had a central hall and eight or nine rooms.

Additions, modifications, specify dates: Ca. 1900 porch, Ca. 1940 curvilinear parapet
 Relocated, specify date, former location and information of interest:
