

Harris County, Texas Justice of the Peace Court Staff Workload Project National Center for State Courts

Justice of the Peace Court Staffing Survey

The National Center for State Courts, in conjunction with the Harris County Office Court Management, are conducting a study entitled the Harris County, Texas Justice of the Peace Court Staff Workload Project. The study is designed to provide information for court personnel and the Office of Court Management to make an informed judgment concerning the level of court support staff required to handle court workload in a quality fashion for the citizens of the state.

To help develop a countywide staffing database we need your assistance to learn more about current staffing levels in your county. We are asking court administrators in each court to complete this very important two-part survey.

Background	Information:
------------	---------------------

Which county do you work in?	2	1
, ,	Precinct	Place

How many hours constitute a full work week in your court (e.g., 37.5; 40 hours)? 40

Staffing Surveys:

On the next set of pages there are two separate parts of the survey for you to fill out.

Part I: The first part of the survey asks you to list all the job titles in your county and the number of employees who fall under that title. For example, if you have 10 Court Clerks in your county you would insert 10 under the heading "Number of Employees." Additional space has been provided for you to add omitted job titles that are present in your court.

Part II: For this section include all staff in your court, excluding judges.

- II. A: Please indicate the number of staff in your court by case type in the matrix below. An example has been provided. In this example, a court has 10 full time staff (FTE). 3 staff work on criminal, 2.5 on civil, 1.5 on juvenile, and 2 on traffic, and 1 works in non-case related central administration (e.g., human resources).
- II. B: Having determined the number of staff in your court by case type, we wish to obtain an estimate of the amount of time staff use to perform certain functions. In the matrix on the next page, estimate the amount of time (in percentages) staff use to perform various functions within the four case types (Central Administrative staff are not applicable for this part of the survey). In the example below, the staff working on the EXAMPLE case type perform Case Processing functions 25 percent of the time, Jury Service functions 10 percent of the time, Financial Management 15 percent, Records Management 15 percent, Monitoring and Enforcement 10 percent, Courtroom Support 10 percent, Judicial Support 10 percent, and Managerial functions 5 percent of the time. For managers and supervisors who work in a particular case type their time associated with case related activities should be included within the time estimate for that function. The remaining time should be captured in the Managerial Function. It is important that each of the rows sum to 100 percent. Definitions of the staff functions can be found at the end of this survey.

Case Related Staff Functions

A. CASE PROCESSING, CALENDARING AND CASEFLOW MANAGEMENT

- CASE PROCESSING Staff working in this area perform tasks that relate to case and document filing and maintaining accurate summary records of cases and court decisions related to them. Other duties include: update the computerized case record summary; provide general counter services and information; prepare cases for appeal or transfer; prepare cost bills; maintain judgment records; process warrants, executions, writs.
- CALENDARING AND CASEFLOW MANAGEMENT Staff working in this area help set judicial calendars as well as help judges meet established case processing time standards and avoid court delay. Specific responsibilities include: plan court calendars and assign cases to calendars; create scheduling formulas and keep records to evaluate their reliability; monitor the progress of cases; maintain accurate records of case inventories and case status; coordinate court scheduling with schedules of outside agencies to avoid conflicts.
- B. RECORDS MANAGEMENT Staff performing services in this area pull and re-shelve files, add documents to files in a timely manner; make files available for court hearings in a reliable and timely manner; keep track of the location of all case files; set-up case and document files; store verbatim records of proceedings, exhibits and other physical evidence; microfilm, scan, and archive records; seal and purge records.
- C. JURY SERVICES Court staff working in jury services create the jury source lists; select juror pools and summon jurors; process jury correspondence and calls regarding excuse requests or to answer questions; conduct orientations; assign jurors to panels and keep track of assignments and utilizations; create and manage juror call-in systems; maintain records for payment; maintain juror utilization statistics and financial records.
- D. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT Staff working in this area receive payments and fees and issue receipts for monies received; process irregular checks; reconcile daily receipts and cash registers; determine appropriate accounts and process deposits; distribute payments to appropriate accounts and disburse funds accordingly; provide bail/bond accounting; and maintain time payment agreement records.
- E. CASE MONITORING AND ENFORCEMENT Staff who work in this area improve the court's ability to hold individuals and outside agencies accountable for compliance with court orders. Specific staff responsibilities include monitoring court ordered sentences, judgments, diversion agreements, probate reports; monitoring compliance with time-payment orders; implementing informal compliance enforcement measures when appropriate (e.g., written and telephone notices, revised payment plan, etc.); reporting non-compliance to appropriate authority; monitoring civil motor vehicle judgments for satisfaction and reporting non-compliance to appropriate authorities with documentation.
- F. COURTROOM SUPPORT Judicial support in this area involve the duties traditionally associated with the "courtroom clerk" that are essential for judges to convene proceedings in open court. Specific staff responsibilities include preparing minutes; managing exhibits; accepting and filing documents presented by attorneys in court; ensuring that court files are available when they are needed; assisting with jury selection and support; calling cases and recording outcomes; performing clerical follow through after court hearings to ensure that required notices to parties or agencies are prepared and issued; other necessary "on-demand" and essential in-court duties.
- G. JUDICIAL SUPPORT - This area of court operations includes traditional secretarial duties such as word processing for correspondence and opinions; serving as receptionist for personal and telephone inquiries and appointments; maintaining noncase related files.
- H. ADMINISTRATIVE Administrative personnel are those who do not perform tasks that are uniquely characteristic of courts but that would be typically required in any government organization. These would include the chief clerk, budget specialists, human resource specialists, information technology staff, etc. Unit or division managers who have oversight for operation level supervisors (supervisors of operational units who regularly supervisor line operations staff should not be counted as managerial) and staff would usually be counted as managerial.
