El Paso County, Texas Ciudad Juarez, El Paso's sister city across the border, is the largest city in the State of Chihuahua and the fifth largest city in all of Mexico. According to the US Census Bureau's population estimate, El Paso's metropolitan population for 2010 will be approximately 763,186. Services will be provided to youth and their family members within the county of El Paso, Texas. Land coverage within the county is 1058 square miles and average commute time is 21 minutes.

The El Paso County Juvenile Probation Department was established in 1950 in an effort to address delinquency issues involving youthful offenders. The Juvenile Probation Department provides diversion and supervision services for youth referred for delinquent conduct ages 10-16. Services and supervision is afforded to both pre and post adjudicated youth in order to assist youth in avoiding delinquent behaviors while providing protection to the public by promoting the concept of consequences for aberrant conduct as well as treatment, training and rehabilitation that emphasizes accountability and responsibility to both parents/caregivers and their children. Services and supervision strategies are intended to address identified risk factors while capitalizing on the youth and families' strengths. A wraparound and holistic approach to service coordination is a core concept the Department adheres to through its collaborations with community organizations, schools, law enforcement and social service agencies. The Department averages approximately 3,000 referrals per year with an average annual adjudication rate of approximately 800 youthful offenders. The Juvenile Probation Department is comprised of five units that provide oversight, supervision and services to youthful offenders:

Detention: Provides temporary and safe custody of male and female juveniles who require a restrictive environment for their own and/or the community's protection while pending legal action. The Juvenile Detention Center has a capacity to secure 62 juvenile offenders and is comprised of 84 Juvenile Supervision Officers that are trained and certified through the State of Texas. Youth detained receive educational, recreational, and nutritional and health services as well as counseling services when deemed necessary.

Intake: The intake unit accepts and processes incoming referrals from all law enforcement agencies within El Paso County for juveniles alleged to have committed an offense. The intake unit is responsible for reviewing police reports to establish jurisdiction and probable cause. Initial screening and assessments for services is also conducted in order to make recommendations to the Court regarding releasing or detaining a youth as well as to make recommendations regarding the need for further court interventions or to divert youth from the juvenile justice system.

Programs under the Intake Unit include:

1. Juvenile Court Conference Committees (JCCC) - JCCC is a diversion program that allows a juvenile to face consequences for his or her actions without the need of a formal court procedure. Participation in JCCC is voluntary, does not exceed six months, community based volunteers mentor and assist the youthful offender in addressing identified risk factors. Upon completion of the program the juvenile's case is close with no further action.
2. Deferred Prosecution Program (DPP) - DPP is a diversion program that affords consequences for delinquent conduct without the need for formal court proceedings. The DPP program is voluntary; does not exceed six months, provides accountable to the juvenile while taking into account the interest of victims and society. Youth placed in DPP are linked to community agencies, afforded minimum supervision, engaged in community projects and referred for services to address risk factors. Upon successful completion of the program pending charges are dismissed

Probation Services: The Probation Services Unit is responsible for conducting investigations of the juvenile and the family, making recommendations to the courts regarding services and levels of supervision as well as monitor and supervising children ordered and placed on different levels of probation and/or detained pending further legal action.

Supervision Levels:

1. Level III - Supervised probation, requires the probation officer to have frequent contact with the juvenile and sometimes imposes a curfew from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. Court order may require the juvenile to participate in community service projects or attend counseling services.
2. Level IV- Intensive Supervised Probation (I.S.P.). Probation officer constantly monitor's juvenile's compliance with probationary guidelines. It provides intensified services as an alternative to removing juvenile offenders from the home/community.

A) ISP- Most youths in the ISP programs are at a progressive sanction level 4, and most would be placed out of the home or in a residential placement facility or be committed to the care, custody and control of the Texas Youth Commission. The program requires strict and frequent reporting and most judgments include additional rehabilitative services to include but not limited to: intensive in home counseling services, outpatient substance abuse services, anger resolution classes, cognitive skills and development classes, community service, restitution and curfew restrictions. The program is geared towards addressing the juvenile's high risks and needs while providing for the public's safety. SHOCAP is intended to address family risk factors by working in collaboration with local law enforcement. It involves a cooperative effort between the El Paso Police Department, the El Paso Sheriff's Department and the Juvenile Probation Department in which home and field visits are conducted jointly and/or separately by officers of each department. SHOCAP is comprised of four phases. Youth that are court ordered under SHOCAP are subject to monthly judicial reviews to ensure compliance with court ordered conditions.

Aftercare: Aftercare services are initiated once a child has been removed from the home and court ordered into placement. Community based services are afforded for families while the juvenile is in an Out-of-Home placement. Aftercare services are designed to facilitate a child's transition back into the home and community. Aftercare services are designed to be a collaborative effort between the placement facility and aftercare staff that work jointly on ensuring that the identified treatment and services needs of juvenile and his/her family members are met during and after placement. Aftercare officers and case managers ensure frequent contact is maintained with the juvenile and his/her family. Aftercare officers also ensure that necessary referrals and community linkages occur in order to facilitate the juvenile's return to the home and/or aid in the rehabilitation process.

Samuel F. Santana Challenge Academy: The Challenge Academy is a military styled secure post adjudication facility licensed by the State of Texas as a support residential substance abuse program that incorporates education and counseling to address identified needs. The Challenge Academy is designed to work with his risk offenders in need of a strict and structured environment. Upon completion of the Challenge Academy youth and their families received services through Project EXITO. Project EXITO is a transitional program developed to aid the graduates of the Challenge Academy transition back into the community as productive citizens. The primary objective is to divert Challenge Academy graduates from re-entering the Juvenile System through the use of local contacts and agencies.

In an effort to reduce recidivism, promote long term behavioral changes and reduce the likelihood of removing youthful offenders from the home and community as well as to serve as a diversion from committing youth to the Texas Youth Commission (TYC) the El Paso County Juvenile Probation Department would like to implement in home and/or community bases services in the youthful offenders natural environments that will aid in the rehabilitation process as well as address delinquency issues that are coupled with mental illness, including co-occurring addictive disorders, developmental disabilities, and/or behavioral health issues.

Purpose: To provide intensive family and community based treatment for high risk and high needs juvenile offenders that have been adjudicated a delinquent child in accordance with Title III of the Texas Family Code. Services shall be provided to youth 12-17 years old that have antisocial or delinquent tendencies and/or chaotic home environments as well as involvement with the juvenile justice system. Youth excluded from services shall include youths living independently with no identified caregiver; youth referred primarily due to concerns related to being currently suicidal, homicidal, or currently experiencing psychotic features requiring hospitalization; youth referred with a primary issue of pervasive developmental delays. Therapeutic services must include an integration of empirically based treatment approaches to address a variety of risk factors across family, peer, educational and community contexts. Services and therapeutic modalities shall promote long term behavioral changes in the youth and family within the youth's natural environment as well as promote empowerment and self sufficiency of the youth and family. Quality assurance mechanisms for achieving outcomes and maintaining treatment fidelity as well as the identification of strategies that will be utilized for overcoming barriers to long term behavioral changes must be incorporated into the services design.
